

Akita Backcountry

Information Sheet

What is Akita Backcountry?

Akita Backcountry is our outdoor education program where campers learn valuable outdoor skills and build confidence in nature and themselves. Campers have educational periods throughout the session to learn new outdoor skills. Each session they learn some of the following skills: fire building, backcountry cooking and food safety, wilderness first aid, archery safety and skills, water purification, orienteering, trail familiarization, knots and rope basics, rock climbing, canoeing, and horseback riding. (Not every topic will be covered in each session.)

Every day is different, but begins at the Backcountry Base Camp, where our campers stay in two large platform tents. Campers learn skills that they have a chance to demonstrate in real world scenarios. Campers mainly spend time on our 1,200 acres, although some groups may have the chance to experience canoeing on the Hocking River or hiking in one of the many beautiful state parks close to Camp Akita.

Transportation

Participants ride to and from Camp Akita in a First Community Church passenger van driven by a Camp Akita staff member. Specifics for your particular session will be communicated by email prior to the Backcountry session.

Food & Lodging

Campers stay in two large platform tents separated by gender and sleep on cots. Campers assist our staff in meal preparation and will leave with a great appreciation for Dutch Oven cooking. Food is dropped off each day in coolers from our kitchen in main camp. In case of inclement weather (severe thunderstorm, tornado, or high winds), we keep a van on site to transport campers back to main camp for safety. If we are forced to return to main camp, campers will stay in our Lodge.

Gear

We provide some of the basics for Backcountry for you. This includes backpacks, sleeping bag, sleeping pad, dishes, and utensils. A complete packing list is included in this packet.

Physical Limitations

Akita Backcountry operates on a “challenge by choice” philosophy. This means that each can set their own limits and is never forced to do anything they feel uncomfortable with. The physical aspects like hiking, climbing, and canoeing are not the focus of Backcountry. Instead, we focus on building self-confidence through mastery of skill, building friendships, and having fun, all while spending time in nature and challenging our preconceived notions of what we are capable of. The physical demands of this program are well within the limits of any healthy young person.

Leaders

Each Backcountry session will have two Counselors, one male and one female, unless the session is specific to a gender (ie, all-female, all-male). We rotate members of our Adventure Program team for each session. They each hold certifications in CPR, archery, climbing tower, and as lifeguards. They are the most experienced members of our summer Leadership Team and run all of our adventure programs throughout the year. Trip leaders carry two-way radios and cell phones and will maintain constant communication with our main camp staff.

Packing List

* Denotes an optional item

Tops

4-7 T-Shirts

Synthetic shirts are recommended over cotton because they dry much faster and wick moisture away from your skin.

Light-weight Layer

Light or mid-weight long-sleeved shirt. Long underwear works best. Synthetic materials are recommended.

Heavy Layer

It gets chilly in the hills at night! A light-weight fleece will work best, as it will keep you warm even if it gets damp. Sweatshirts and sweat pants are ok, but can be heavy and bulky.

Rain Jacket

This must be big enough to fit over all your layers at the same time. Ponchos are not recommended.

Bottoms

Underwear

5 pairs of your most comfortable underwear.

Shorts

3-4 pairs of loose-fitting, nylon athletic or hiking shorts.

Insulating Layer

Light or mid-weight long underwear pants. Again, it can get chilly at night!

Pants

Light-weight synthetic pants are best. If these are zip-off pants they can double as shorts. Pants are great to hike in to protect your legs from thorns and poison ivy.

Rain Pants*

Rain pants are not required, but are a good option if you have a pair.

Bathing Suit*

We will be swimming in the lake and canoeing. Please bring a bathing suit or alternate clothing appropriate for swimming, as well as a towel. Be sure that whatever you bring to swim in is comfortable and allows you to be active in the water.

Footwear

Hiking Boots

Akita Backcountry does not require the most expensive boots, but you must have something that is more durable and supportive than tennis shoes. Boots that rise above the ankle will provide the most support and prevent twisted ankles, but boots that are ankle-height will work just fine. Boots that are water proof are recommended.

If you do one thing to prepare for Backcountry, please ensure you wear your boots around before coming on the trip. Blisters may not seem like a big deal, but they are one of the most common injuries we see and can quickly lead to some less-than-happy campers!

Socks

5 pairs of wool-synthetic blend or synthetic socks. Smart Wool, Patagonia, and Bridgedale all make excellent backpacking/hiking socks. These socks must be long enough to pass the top of your boots.

Camp shoes / Canoe shoes

You will need a pair of shoes for wearing around our campsites after hiking, as well as wearing on our canoe trip. A pair of old tennis shoes, Crocs, Teva's, or Chaco's all work well. Flip-flops or other flimsy sandals will not work. These should be comfortable and big enough to be worn with your hiking socks.

Personal Gear

Water Bottles

Bring two bottles, with the total capacity being at least two liters.

Sunglasses

Should be a cheap pair with UV protection. Please do not take expensive sunglasses on this trip.

Headlamp

A headlamp is wonderful because it's an easy, hands-free flashlight. Luckily there are a lot of lightweight, inexpensive models available at places like Target and Walmart. Don't spend more than $40 on this, but you need one of these!

Personal Hygiene

Toothbrush, toothpaste, towel, and face/body wipes are the most needed items. Trial sizes are best. You can bring hand sanitizer if you want, we will have soap for you to use. We will not be taking showers on this trip, so bringing baby wipes will help you stay clean. Please remember any personal hygiene and toiletry items that you may need during your stay.

Medications

Bring any daily prescription or over-the-counter medications, or vitamins to check-in. Our camp staff will collect these from you; all medications are locked in the van. All medications must be brought in the original container with dispensing information. Do not forget your inhaler, if applicable. We carry a Med Kit with allergy and pain medications for those "just-in-case" situations, so no need to bring those.

Sunscreen

SPF 15 or higher, sweat-proof and long lasting.

Writing Utensil

Bring two ballpoint pens, as they are easy to misplace!

Plastic Bags

We use Ziploc bags and trash bags to store our clothes and other belongings, so they are easy to find and always stay dry in our backpacks. Bring 5-6 freezer zip-top bags with secure closure and 2-3 trash bags to protect your stuff from the rain. The thicker the trash bag, the better!

Camp Chair*

Light-weight, foldable camp chairs are gaining popularity and are a wonderful comfort addition to the trip. These are great for campfires, group times, and just hanging out. Crazy Creek is the most common brand of these chairs.

Pocket Knife*

Used mostly for cooking and food preparation. Multi-tools are great and are usually more durable.

Camera*

Please do not bring a nice/expensive camera! A disposable camera is perfect and if you lose it you won't be out a hundred dollars. Please do not bring your phone to use as a camera.

Miscellaneous

Please also remember to bring a pillow, towel, journal, and a good book to read (nice to have when it rains!).

Group Gear

We will provide all this gear for you. Participants must purchase any gear that is lost or damaged.

We will supply the following:

- Tent
- Ground Pad
- Stove and fuel
- Dishes and utensils
- Sleeping bags* are available, but you are also welcome to bring your own.

What NOT to bring:

- Drugs, alcohol, or tobacco
- Food (we have campers with allergies)
- Electronics (iPod, cell phone)
- Expensive items
- Anything you don't want to get dirty, wet or possibly lose

We have an arrangement with The Outdoor Source for a 15% discount, should you need any gear for the trip. They are located in the Kingsdale Center at 3121 Kingsdale Center, Columbus, Ohio 43221.

You must take this packing list with you to receive your discount. The Outdoor Source is a great, locally owned outfitting shop with knowledgeable employees and a wide variety of gear. They have outfitted our group for the past four years and know what gear to recommend for you.
